A month ago Dr. Denlinger told his sexton. Walter Hays, that he and his seventy-one-year-old mother, Mrs. Maria Hays, must leave the parish house. Since then an opposition, led by James W. Patterson, a coal merchant at 337 Ninth avenue, has drawn up a slate for the positions of senior warden, junior warden and three vestrymen which were to be voted on last night. Dr. Denlinger was ignorant of this.

Some 200 of the church's 500 communicants met in the church last night for the election, and soon after Dr. Denlinger commenced to count the ballots he found his slate seemed losing. This slate was Louis E. Schwab, George B. Covington, Courtney Hyde, Charles Hillock and Oliver Tims. On the opposi-tion ticket was Charles Hays, a brother of the sexton.
